Fire Broke Out—

while delivering refreshments for the affair that Dr. Wagner smelled smoke and discovered the blaze.

Congregation Organized

St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church, one of Mahanoy City's oldest congregations, was founded in 1863, the same year in which the borough was organized.

The first church edifice was erected at the south end of Main street, present site of the Mahanoy City Sports Wear factory.

In 1908, the present house of worship was erected with Thomas Koch, local contractor and prominent member of the congregation, as contractor.

Dedication exercises of the structure were held on November 15, 1908, during the pastorate of the late Roy J. G. Kerschner.

The church was one of the first built locally on the famous "Akron" plan, which permits the combination of the church and church school rooms into one auditorium should the occasion demand it.

The church, through the careful attention of the consistory, has always been maintained in first class condition. With one of the finest church auditoriums in the community, the church was used frequently for interdenominational activities and only last week one of the services of the Week of Prayer was held therein.

Rendered Aid

Through the courtesy of Georges and Manson restaurants, the Burdullis cafe and the Shenandoah Salvation Army unit, coffee and sandwiches were furnished the firemen. Woolworth's store, through the courtesy of Frank Atkinson, local manager, provided drinking cups.

Members of the disaster committee of the local Red Cross Chapter, which is headed by Dr. A. T. Lichowitz assisted in serving the refreshments to the firemen.

Miss Mary Kane, local visiting nurse, was on hand to render emergency assistance to any of the firemen injured in the fire. Herman Janowich, of M. L. Janowich and Sons factory, was among those assisting in furnishing refreshments to the firemen. Others included Abe Tullin and Emil Yenchick.

Members of the Shenandoah police force were on hand to assist the local police force in directing traffic around the fire zone.

Parsonage Untouched

The parsonage of St. Paul's church, occupied by the Rev. George Raymond Winters, who on November 1st assumed his duties as pastor of the church, and his family, which is located next to the church on the Pine street side, and the Kilroy and Lutz homes on the Main Street side, escaped with smoke damage.

The Public Library, in the former K. of C. building, received water damage when a hose burst, flooding the hall, and also suffered smoke damage. The rear of the library building, located on Mahanoy street, adjoins St. Paul's church and parsonage.

Large Crowd Gathers

Two hours after the discovery of the fire, smoke continued to seep from the roof and upper windows of the church while firemen still maintained their posts on the roofs of the parsonage and other adjacent buildings.

Hundreds of persons assembled while the fire alarm was still sounding and were still milling about the scene after the blaze was brought under control.

Location of Trucks

The fire companies as they came on the fire started to take their positions at the various plugs with the Washington Hook and Ladder Co., taking up their stand directly in front of the church on South Main street. The West End Company had their truck at the northwest corner of Main and Mahanoy streets while the first truck of the Good American Company was at Pine and Locust and the second truck of the same company was at the southwest corner of Main and Centre streets while one truck of the Humane Company was directly in front of the Union National Bank with the other at the southeast corner of Main and Mahanoy. The Washington Hook and Ladder Company truck was at the corner of Market and Main streets.

One Shenandoah Company was located at North Main and Vine streets while the other was at the corner of Spruce and South Main streets.

The Farmer Can Grow His Own Food

Towns Must Help Farmers Grow Food, Says Expert

Farmers can grow their own food. But, Charles F. Brannan, assistant secretary of agriculture, told a Freedom garden conference at New Orleans, La., so can town and city folk, as the Victory garden campaign proved.

"Our task of helping provide enough food—at the right place—and the right time—is too big to be done by any small group," he said. "Every American must contribute. For those who can grow a garden, there is no more important way."

"True, we cannot actually grow wheat in home gardens, but their produce will increase the national food supply. By substituting home-grown and home preserved foods for part of our usual purchase of cereal products, we are in a very real sense 'producing more wheat for export.'"

Home vegetable gardens must become a permanent source of food, if America is to realize "economy of abundance," said Mr. Brannan.

"They can play an important role in our efforts to place a floor under food consumption in this country, to maintain and even increase the wartime gains we have made nutrition-wise. Many Americans are not eating the kinds of food that make for good diets. They suffer from hidden hunger, which causes lack of vigor and mental alertness, high infant mortality, and low life expectancy. This is true of school children in Maine, factory workers in California, college women in the middle west."

Home gardeners increase the consumption of fruits and vegetables, and teach better food habits, he said. A survey in 1944 proved that families owning gardens actually bought more fruits and vegetables than others.

"Thus the home garden program can help us realize an economy of abundance. It can help overcome the effects of limited food budgets, it can help to overcome indifference and poor food habits. It can provide a growing and more stable market for commercially-produced fruits and vegetables."

"Gardening can do much to improve the surroundings in which we work, live and play. It can improve the setting of our homes—enhance the value of the home itself. A gardener who starts growing a few vegetables will soon broaden his activities. A few flowers at first, and then a more ambitious job of landscaping. When he finishes his home, he is apt to look at his community with a more discerning eye. Pride in one's home will lend to pride in one's community."

"The immediate job is to help increase our domestic food supply. In meeting today's problems, the home gardener also will be contributing to the nation's future."

FEDERATION WOMEN'S CLUBS OPEN THE 1948 SEASON

Jewish Squads Strike Back At Arabs, Holy Land

Jerusalem, Jan. 16 (U.P.)—Jewish Haganah squads struck back at Arabs in Haifa in a two-hour attack before dawn today and first reports of casualties ranged up to 30 Arabs killed with an equal number wounded.

Arab sources said their casualties numbered 32 killed and wounded. A Haganah source said the attack inflicted 80 casualties, half of them fatalities.

Jewish sources said the attack was made by 400 Haganah members who invaded Haifa from the valley of Jezreel and fought into the heart of the Arab section.

The Jews blew up five houses and a large Arab garage, where scores of Arab owned vehicles were parked. The attack appeared to be launched against Arab transport in retaliation for yesterday's Arab violence which killed two Jews, wounded others and paralyzed Haifa.

The attack, described as the largest made by Jews in Haifa, was carried out with mortars, automatic weapons and fire bombs.

Among the buildings destroyed was a three-story house, alleged to be the headquarters of the Arab youth organization.

Haganah headquarters said other attacks were launched at a dozen points along highways into the port city in an effort to open up transportation into the Jewish section, closed since yesterday's flareup of violence.

The fighting broke out suddenly yesterday between Haifa's 70,000 Arabs and 40,000 Jews and spread to the main streets of the city.

Authorities immediately closed the port gates and the city's entire population withdrew behind barred doors and shuttered windows, paralyzing the port where 25 ships are waiting to be loaded or unloaded.

Three Jews were arrested shortly after today's pre-dawn attack when they were found crouching in the attack area in an armored bus. Three pistols and several grenades were found in the bus.

tion was made to the Control Board July 11, 1947. Following hearing the Board refused to grant the license on the grounds that the quota for the borough for that type license had been exhausted. One of the dead was identified tentatively as Harry Smith, 66. The other was a man between 70 and 80 years old.

The blaze was believed to have started in an overheated furnace. Firemen battled 13-degree-below-zero weather in addition to the flames. The two-story structure was destroyed.
